Numb. 3667.

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, July 15. 1713.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 15.

Naples, June 13.

COUNT Daun having caused a List to be made of those who have taken Sanctuary in Churches, has ordered that they shall be expelled them, and that those who have been condemned (on Contumacy, or not appearing before a Court of Justice to take a legal Trial) for notorious and enormous Crimes, shall be knocked on the head, as three were lately at Capua: And accordingly last Night one was killed in the Church of Santa Margherita. We learn, that the Collateral Council having examined the Report given in to them by the Deputies for controuling the Disposal of Benefices, touching the two Persons whom the Pope has nominated to Bishopricks though they are not Natives of this Kingdom, have determined that the Royal Exequatur or Writ for putting them into Possession, shall be refused them, and that the Revenues of those Bishopricks shall be taken into Sequestration.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 15.

Madrid, June 26. The 38 Deputies of the principal Towns of Spain, who composed the Cortes or States, are all gone home, after having kissed the King's Hand and thanked him for the Favours which he has conferred on each of them in particular. As 'tis hoped the Peace will soon be concluded with Portugal and Holland, Measures are begun to be taken for reforming Part of the Troops. The Marquis de Ceva-Grimaldi and Don Francisco Pineda who were nominated Commissioners to regulate the Evacuation of Catalonia and assist at it, are at Cervera, with the Commissioners nominated by Count Staremberg. The King's Troops were drawing together to take Possession of that Principality: But the Evacuation is retarded, because there is not come to Barcelona a sufficient Number of Vessels to transport all the German Troops. Part of the Ships which were hired in Italy, refuse to sail till they are paid beforehand the Freight they agreed for.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 17.

Madrid, June 26. Monsieur Orry is returned hither from Saragossa, after having assisted at a Council of War held in Arragon, and issued divers Orders on the Frontier, particularly concerning the French Troops which have hitherto been in the Service of this Crown, to whom he has paid all that was due to them from the King, and they are now on the March through Navarre to France. The Towns and Places in Flanders being pursuant to the Treaty of Peace evacuated to the Dutch, the King has sent Order for all the Spanish and Walloon Regiments, which have served in the Netherlands and are in his Majesty's Pay, to march forthwith to this Kingdom by the shortest Route; the Court having resolved to keep up all the old Regiments, and to disband the youngest and weakest, filling up the former with the most serviceable Men that can be chosen out of the latter. Count Bergheyk during the short Stay he made at Paris, when he was called to this Court from Utrecht, having not been able to even and clear the Accompts of the Assiento (or Slave-Trade) which the French Company carried on for 11 Years, the King has put that Affair into the Hands of the Council of the Indies; who have signified to the said French Company, that they must duly empower and send hither some Persons, to settle and close the said Accompts with them. 'Tis foreseen they will have Work enough, for during the said 11 Years no Account has been made up, notwithstanding a fourth Part of the Profit of that Trade has yearly been paid to the King, pursuant to Agreement with the Company. To prevent the like with the English, who have taken on them the Assiento, the Queen of Great-Britain has agreed, that the King shall maintain at London some Person who is skilled in this Trade, to assist at all the Consultations for carrying it on, which will make it easy to both Parties, to even the Accompts from time to time. The Marquis de Monteleon being gone from London to Utrecht, and the King being desirous to have a Minister at the British Court, to take charge of such Affairs as may be to be transacted till the Marquis de Monteleon go back, or till some other Ambassador be sent thither, his Majesty has dispatched the necessary Credentials and Instructions for that purpose to Don Patricio Lawles, an Irish Gentleman, who was some Years a Major-General in his Majesty's Service. The 24th Instant the Lord Lexington received an Express from Admiral Jennings at Barcelona; with an Account (some say) that the Evacuation of Catalonia was fixed by the Commissioners on both Sides to the 3d of next Month; but others pretend the Admiral writes he found Count Staremberg very wavering and unsettled on that Point, and that therefore by Virtue of the Queen's Guarantee of that Evacuation, he should be obliged to hinder with his Fleet the bringing in by Sea of any Provisions or Ammunition into any Part of the Coast of Catalonia, so to oblige the Germans by Want of Subsistence to leave that Principality. There are others yet who on the contrary imagine, that the said Evacuation is artfully retarded much against Count Staremberg's Mind, to hinder the Emperor from making use of those Troops, either in Italy to oppose the Duke of Savoy's taking Possession of Sicily, or on the Rhine.

Pampelona, July 1. The two French Regiments which had lain here in Garrison, are marched for Bayone under the Command of M. de Pons: Those Regiments arriving on the Frontier at a Village called Burgette, desired to be supplied with Provisions for their Money, which the Spanish Inhabitants refusing, M. de Pons ordered his Soldiers to plunder the Village, but without doing any harm to the Persons of the Inhabitants; which was executed. The other French Troops, as well from St. Sebastian as other Places, are likewise on the March for France.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 17.

Cadiz, June 18. Here are now in out Bay 6 British Men of War, viz. the Romney and Greenwich, which are about to sail with some Merchant-Ships for Marcellles; the Northumberland, Dartmouth, and Fox, are in Readiness to sail for the Thames, as is also the York which is first to go to the Texel. 'Tis likely 6 or 7 Merchant-Ships which lye here bound for the Texel and London, will go in Company with those Men of War: They are the Bernard Galley, Fortune-Galley, and others. The Importation of Goods hither from Holland, continues rigorously prohibited.
